

European Literacy and Quality Education for all...

AEDE-France (Association Européenne de l'Éducation-France) is the French section of the European Association AEDE/EAT, a non-profit association funded in Paris in 1956 with a view to developing European literacy and citizenship education.

AEDE-France aims to:

- Contribute to the improvement of national education systems in order to reach the European objectives of the Education & Training 2020 strategy
- Offer training sessions and seminars to foster a better understanding of the European project, its founding values, its history, its cultures and its socio-economical context and issues
- Produce and share resources and online tools for teachers, teacher-trainers, school leaders and other educational partners
- Organise international conferences and colloquiums and publish the proceedings
- Facilitate networking for European or International educational projects
- Coordinate and disseminate the ELICIT project for education and training
